

The Army Historical Foundation Circles of Distinction

Share the story of America through the eyes of the American Soldier and join our Circles of Distinction.

The Army Historical Foundation's (AHF) top supporters are the Circles of Distinction donors whose strong support has helped the Capital Campaign raise the funds to build the National Museum of the United States Army.

This exclusive group of committed individuals, foundations, and corporations have their names displayed on the massive granite wall in the Museum Lobby.

Pledge commitments start at $50,000 and go up to beyond $5,000,000. The donors are listed on the wall by financial commitment. Donors who give above the $150,000 threshold are eligible to support an exhibit within a gallery and have their name listed on a corresponding gallery plaque.

"I'm proud to see the Eisiminger name on the donor wall as it shows our commitment to tell the Army's story; something we have been part of since the Revolutionary War."
